

Getting Back to My Roots

As many of you may know, I was an architect and builder in Vermont for nearly 25 years. Unfortunately, after nearly 60 homes and a dozen or so commercial projects, I suffered serious burnout.

However, after 30+ years here on our Big Island paradise, and after completing a few design jobs for friends and neighbors, I am finding the design work to be creative, fun, and invigorating once again.

I am now accepting residential projects, including new homes, additions, remodels, and small commercial projects. I can also help you navigate the daunting EPIC building permit application process.
